

Activity 3: Human Bingo - Team Building

(Interactive activity to learn new things about fellow participants)

1. Give each participant a bingo sheet (or list of prompts provided below).
2. Ask participants to move around the room with the goal to achieve Bingo first. Each box is prompted by "Find someone who..."
3. When they find someone who fits a prompt, they write that person's name in the box.
4. Before writing the name, participants must ask a follow-up question to learn something new about that person.
5. Rules:
 - Participants must speak to the person one-on-one (no calling out answers to the group)
 - Each person can only sign maximum of 2 boxes per sheet
 - A follow-up question must be asked (Where, When, What Happened...)
6. Continue until someone completes a row, column, or the entire sheet.
7. When someone completes their sheet, they call out "Bingo!" and the activity pauses.
8. After several rounds, have the group share 2–3 interesting things they learned about each other.
9. End with a brief reflection on what they discovered about the group.
 - What surprised you about others in this group you didn't know before?
 - What do we have in common as a group?
